Hey Nick:

Thx so much for thoughtfully pulling this together. I frankly think it's in great shape and don't have a ton of edits - especially given the tight turnaround.

I'm going to have Marie and Tina look it over today and take one more thorough look myself and we can submit it before we leave.

And let's definitely do so with both of our names.

Thx so much!

Best,

Jessica

Hey Jessica,

I finally got a chance to tackle this review of the USC CED. See attached draft. As per below, they'd like to get it as soon as possible. I'm going on vacation for two weeks starting Wednesday. I think it's in decent shape as is, but of course you should feel free to edit as you see fit. I'm honestly fine with it going to them in whatever form you see fit – jointly, just from you, just from me, or not at all for that matter! I've also attached their original self-assessment review for your reference. Most of my review was based on that.

I'm available to discuss any time before Wednesday, after that I hope to not be available to discuss anything other than whether to have lunch by the pool prepared by the private chef or venture into a nearby Tuscan village.

Ciao for now!

Thanks for reaching out. The feedback we've had for past reviews have been short and to the point (☺). I've attached two examples from last years' reviews of the Bedrosian Center on Governance<<http://bedrosian.usc.edu/>> and the Schaeffer Center for Health Policy<<http://healthpolicy.usc.edu/>>. Both reviews are only 2 pages long. I will say that the Dean wished they were a page or two longer (but no more than 5 pages).

You feedback is meant to be an arms-length view of the centers that will inform the dean of how their work is perceived from outside the Price school. You should point out areas that are working well, suggest improvements if necessary, and advise on priorities and activities going forward. As non-academics, I think the input of CCA will be unique and valued by Dean Knott and Vice Dean Sood.

Hope this helps-

Donna,

I'm working with Jessica Lall on this and I'm wondering if you have a template or sample of a previous assessment report that you could provide for our reference? We've reviewed the self-assessment and are just trying to get a more specific sense of what kind of feedback would be most useful from your outside reviewers.

I'm available to discuss on the phone if that's easier.

Thanks!

Thanks so much for the information. As you can imagine, Jessica has quite a busy schedule right now, and will be out of town for two weeks at the end of someone who works with us and focuses on economic development assist her with the project? She really wants to participate and better understand the work USC is doing in this area. Please let me know. Much appreciated!

Shawn-

The review process takes most reviewers about two weeks to get back to us with a 3-5 page written report. So, ideally, we'd like to see something in early/mid July.

Once the Dean's reads your report, we would schedule a debrief by phone.

The call usually runs one hour (give or take). Some reviewers have asked to "interview" research center staff or come to campus for a site visit but that is rare and can also be arranged via phone calls if requested.

It's pretty straight forward and an opportunity for the Dean to get fresh eyes and thoughts on the work the research centers are doing.

Let me know if you have any other questions-

Re: USC Sol Price School Research Center Review

Dear Ms. Lall:

I am writing to invite you to serve as an external reviewer to evaluate The USC Center for Economic Development <<http://ced.usc.edu/>> (CED), a major research center at the USC Price School of Public Policy. Each of the school's 11 research centers is reviewed every five years on a rotating basis. The process includes a 10 page self-assessment prepared by the research center followed by an external review to assess the self-study document and programs of the center. At this time the CED has completed its self-evaluation study and provided me with a written self-appraisal.

We ask that you evaluate the self-assessment and conduct interviews with the center director, faculty and other key stakeholders. We also ask that you participate in a one hour debrief by phone, produce a final three page report, and make recommendations to me on the accomplishments and future direction for the center. A site visit can be arranged. However, in consideration of your time and availability, you may conduct the review remotely.

CED serves as a leader in facilitating sustainable economic development opportunities throughout Southern and Central California. As an applied research center at Price, CED partners with community-based organizations, public agencies and private entities to enhance their functional capacity. Its geographic focus is southern and central California and its mission is to provide technical assistance to economically distressed communities, offer clinical experience to graduate students, and prepare students for future professional opportunities. To achieve this mission, CED focuses on clinical training, technical assistance, community outreach and applied research.

More information is at ced.usc.edu <<http://ced.usc.edu>>

USC is one of the nation's major research universities and the USC Sol Price School of Public Policy is a renowned contributor to the university's reputation. Urban development, sustainability, governance, healthcare, and social policy are a few of the modern challenges that our faculty study to find the most effective solutions and much of our research is conducted through research centers and institutes.

I would be honored if you could participate in this important review to shape the future of CED. If you are willing to participate in this review, please reply to Donnajean Ward at donnajw@usc.edu <<mailto:donnajw@usc.edu>> <<mailto:donnajw@usc.edu>>. Should you be unable to participate, or require further information, please contact us as soon as possible.

Thank you for your consideration in this important matter.
